REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Independent claims 1, 11, 14, 18 teaches the limitations or substantially similar limitations for "a method of providing relative addressing in a computer network environment, the method comprising:

associating a plurality of relative destinations with a corresponding plurality of actions, wherein each of the sender-relative destinations is a non-absolute destination having an associated absolute destination that varies based on sender identity, and wherein each action specifies a plurality of search terms; receiving a first relative destination for a communication via the computer network; receiving sender identification information via the computer network, the second identification information identifying the sender of the communication; identifying a first action in the plurality of actions associated with the first sender-relative destination; performing a search of a directory server based on the search terms specified by the first action; and determining a first absolute destination for the communication based on the search terms specified by the first action and the sender identification information" in a computer networked environment on computer readable medium. The further dependent claims define the directory server to be an LDAP server where retrieved information can be of different types. Applicant points out that proxy email addresses are different than the actual email address and that the destination of the email varies based on the sender's identity. Applicant also points out the action information identifying a plurality of actions specifies plurality of hierarchical search terms.

The prior art does not teach the cited limitation.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
